Fact Book 2007 Cover

A commitment to diversity is an integral part of the University of Georgia's educational mission. As expressed in the institution's mission statement, the university "seeks to foster the understanding of and respect for cultural differences necessary for an enlightened and educated citizenry." The Fact Book 2007 cover honors three courageous pioneers and their contributions to diversity at the University of Georgia.

In January 1961, Hamilton E. Holmes became the first African-American man admitted to the University of Georgia. He graduated cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree in 1963, and became the first African American admitted to the Emory University School of Medicine. Dr. Holmes had an esteemed medical career, including serving as Associate Dean of the Emory University School of Medicine and culminating as the head of orthopedic surgery at Grady Memorial Hospital. He was an ardent supporter of the university and was the first African-American member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Georgia Foundation at the time of his death in 1995. In 1999, Dr. Holmes became the first African American to have an endowed professorship at UGA established in his name.

In January 1961, Charlayne Hunter (now Hunter-Gault) became the first African-American woman admitted to the University of Georgia. After graduating in 1963, Hunter-Gault went on to become an award-winning journalist, respected for her work in television and print with such major outlets as CNN, NPR and The New York Times. Among other honors, she is a two-time winner of the prestigious Peabody Award for broadcast excellence. She has returned to UGA numerous times, including serving as a commencement speaker in 1998. UGA's Grady College of Journalism and Mass Communication created a Distinguished Writer in Residence program in her honor.

In May 1961, Mary Frances Early transferred her graduate work from the University of Michigan to UGA. On August 16, 1962, she became the first African American to graduate from the University of Georgia, earning a master's degree in music education. Early had a lengthy and distinguished career as a music teacher and administrator in Atlanta public schools and colleges. She was the first African-American President of the Georgia Music Educators Association and received their Distinguished Educator Award. UGA's College of Education created an endowed professorship in her name and the Graduate and Professional Scholars organization holds an annual lecture in her honor.

The building depicted behind the Arch was renamed the Holmes/Hunter Academic Building on January 9, 2001, as part of the 40th Anniversary commemoration of the desegregation of the university. Holmes and Hunter walked past the historic Arch and into this building to register for classes. The courage and fortitude displayed by these students and their families paved the way for others to follow.

THE MISSION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

The University of Georgia, a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities, is the state's flagship institution of higher education. It is also the state's oldest, most comprehensive and most diversified institution of higher education. Its motto, "to teach, to serve, and to inquire into the nature of things," reflects the University's integral and unique role in the conservation and enhancement of the state's and nation's intellectual, cultural, and environmental heritage.

The University of Georgia shares with the other research universities of the University System of Georgia the following core characteristics:

- a statewide responsibility and commitment to excellence and academic achievements having national and international recognition;
- a commitment to excellence in a teaching/learning environment dedicated to serve a diverse and well-prepared student body, to promote high levels of student achievement, and to provide appropriate academic support services;
- a commitment to excellence in research, scholarship, and creative endeavors that are focused on organized programs to create, maintain, and apply new knowledge and theories; that promote instructional quality and effectiveness; and that enhance institutionally relevant faculty qualifications;
- a commitment to excellence in public service, economic development, and technical assistance activities designed to address the strategic needs of the State of Georgia along with a comprehensive offering of continuing education designed to meet the needs of Georgia's citizens in life-long learning and professional education;
- a wide range of academic and professional programming at the baccalaureate, master's, and doctoral levels.

With its statewide mission and core characteristics, the University of Georgia endeavors to prepare the University community and the State for full participation in the global society of the twenty-first century. Through its programs and practices, it seeks to foster the understanding of and respect for cultural differences necessary for an enlightened and educated citizenry. It further provides for cultural, ethnic, gender, and racial diversity in the faculty, staff, and student body. The University is committed to preparing the University community to appreciate the critical importance of a quality environment to an interdependent global society.

As a comprehensive land-grant—sea-grant institution, the University of Georgia offers baccalaureate, master's, doctoral, and professional degrees in the arts, humanities, social sciences, biological sciences, physical sciences, agricultural and environmental sciences, business, environmental design, family and consumer sciences, forest resources, journalism and mass communication, education, law, pharmacy, social work, and veterinary medicine.

The University attracts students nationally and internationally as well as from within Georgia. It offers the state's broadest array of possibilities in graduate and professional education, and thus a large minority of the student body is postbaccalaureate. The predominantly Georgian undergraduate student body is a mix of highly qualified students originally admitted as freshmen and selected transfer students principally from other University System institutions.

With original scholarship, basic and applied research, and creative activities constituting an essential core from which to draw, the impact of the land-grant—sea-grant mission is reflected throughout the state. Cooperative extension, continuing education, public service, experiment stations, and technology transfer are all designed to enhance the well-being of the citizens of Georgia through their roles in economic, social, and community development.

As it has been historically, the University of Georgia is responsive to the evolution of the state's educational, social, and economic needs. It aspires through its strategic planning to even closer contact and interaction with public and private institutions throughout the state as well as with the citizens it serves.

THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA STRATEGIC PLAN

The institutional goal of the University of Georgia is to provide the best possible education to its students; the best possible service to the citizens of the state of Georgia and beyond; and research, discovery and creative achievement of the highest order to benefit Georgia, the nation, and the world.

Achieving the University of Georgia's institutional goal requires the following elements:

- Comprehensive strength in undergraduate educational programs
- Premier graduate and professional programs
- A faculty of national and international distinction
- Premier research and scholarship
- A culturally diverse and inclusive academic community
- Strong ties between the University and external constituencies
- A comprehensive learning community and a working environment of high quality
- A leading outreach program to extend knowledge and expertise to the people of the State and beyond

The University of Georgia Strategic Plan comprises the set of strategic plans which delineate plans of primary organizational units and an institutional strategic plan. The institutional plan is used as the compass by which operational plans are developed. Operational plans include:

- the academic plan, including research, outreach and public service, and student affairs;
- the physical plan, which includes plans for capital outlay, renovation, and maintenance of the University's physical plant;
- the plan for external relations, which includes plans for a capital campaign;
- an organizational and personnel plan, which includes plans for faculty and staff development;
- the financial plan for the institution; and
- an institutional communications and marketing plan that outlines how these plans should be articulated to public and key constituencies, both internal and external

In order to achieve its vision for the future, the University of Georgia is engaging three strategic directions to be carried out at the institutional, college, and unit levels:

- Building the new learning environment
- Investing in its research endeavors
- Competing in a global economy

Notes:

Exchange Programs involve small numbers of UGA students trading places with students from partner institutions overseas. Students take classes at the partner institution with professors and students from the host country or with other international students.

Study Abroad Programs typically involve UGA professors taking a group of UGA students abroad and teaching the courses.

Nontraditional Study Abroad Programs include internships, research and activities arranged by a UGA professor but involving very small numbers of students. Although more non-traditional programs existed in earlier years, the OIE has no documentation of these activities.
